About this qualification

This qualification provides the opportunity to develop an understanding of different perspectives of death and dying and the impact it has on individuals. It covers the aims and principles of end of life care, communication factors, and how to access a range of support services in end of life care.

It is aimed at all learners in the health and social care sector who are looking to develop their knowledge in this area.

The award provides initial learning in end of life care and could provide opportunity for continuing professional development (CPD) across all levels. This makes it ideal for anyone who may need an understanding of this subject, even though they are not directly involved in the care of individuals.

Qualification structure

Learners must take one mandatory unit.

Mandatory units

EOL 201 Understand how to work in end of life care (A/503/8085)

Assessment

All units are internally assessed.

Assessment enables the learner's workplace practice to provide evidence for individual units as well as the whole qualification. Methods of assessment could include:

- inference of knowledge from direct observation of practice
- witness evidence when directed by the sector skills assessment strategy
- professional discussion
- reflection on own practice in real work situations
- written assignments
- learner's own plans and written records

task set by us for knowledge learning outcomes only *

The qualification will be assessed as achieved or not yet achieved. All the assessment criteria of the chosen units must be achieved.

* NB: assessment tasks are provided for tutors' convenience. They are not mandatory.

Progression opportunities
